A STATUS of Cromwell, to be made by Thorneycroft, has just been ordered by the British government. It will be set up at Westminster.

Tun Duchess d'Uzes is at work on olossal statue of the Virgin Mary, which she intends to place on a rocky mountain peak on her estate.

A MARRIE medallion portrait of John Couch Andams, the discoverer of Neptune, has just been set up in Westminster Abbey, close to the memorials to Isaac Newton, Darwin and Herschel, Around the medallion is carved the name, with the inscription: "Nep-Calculo Monstravit, A. S. MDCCCXLV."

A VELASQUEZ lately presented by Lord Savile to the National Gallery in London, representing a betrothal, is behim to be the last picture by the artist, and to contain portraits of himself, in his dress as a knight of Santiago, of the poet Quevedo, and of Velasquez' favorite slave, Juan Parega.

TWO GRAND OLD MEN.

EVERYTHING in the way of room ornamentation, such as curtains, lambrequins, tidies, etc., is disliked by Prince ismarck. Even the sight of a lamp-

GLADSTONE looks forward to the fu ture without fear of death. In declining to do some litearry work recently on account of press of other business, he agreed to begin the task in the latter part of 1896.

GLADSTONE said recently to an interviewer that he was too old a man to have an opinion of any kind on the "new woman," and that "his ideal women had not altered in the last three-score years and ten."

MR. GLADSTONE is passing the time in arranging his correspondence, and making extensive notes regarding the principal episodes in his career for the sistance of his biographer. The expremier is in excellent health.

"You used to do a little trading on change, didn't you, Higgs!" "Yes."
"Were you a bull or a bear?" "Neither, Blobbs. I was a lamb."—Chicago Tribune.

DOCTRING is nothing but the skin of truth set up and stuffed.—H. W. Beecher.

Nervous Prostration Is due to impure and impoverished blood. The true way to cure, is to purify the blood. Read this: "My wife was troubled with palpitation of the heart, numbness, dizziness and general nervous prosphysicians failed to give her relief. Then she decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

After taking a half dozen bottles, we saw a decided improvement. She has now taken about eighteen bottles and feels the best she has for years. She looks so much better that HIMES, Cedar Creek, Indiana.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is the only True Blood Purifier prominently in the public eye to-day. Be sure to get Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take.

LATEST PARIS FASHIONS

L'Art de La Mode. 8 Colored Plates, signed by Our Special

Corps of PARISIAN ARTISTS.

To Order it of your Newsdealer or send 35 cents for latest number to THE MORSE-BROUGHTON CO.,

3 East 19th St., : NEW YORK. ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR

* THE BEST * FOOD Dyspeptic, Delicate, Infirm and

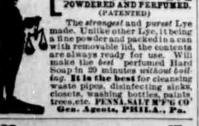

AGED PERSONS # JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York. #

BEST IN THE WORLD. SISING SUND POUR POLISH

after-dinner shine, applied and pol-ished with a cloth,

se Brot., Props., Canton, Mass., U.S.A. EWIS' 98 % LYE

CHAPTER XL-CONTINUED.

Turning her clear eyes full upon his face, in low, musical tones, she replied: "Mr. Thornton, you are a man of wise judgment, and one who can fully appreciate the proprieties of life. Please allow your better judgment to rule and do not be offended at what I am going to say. I have, as you surmised, purposely avoided meeting you as I once did. If you will try to fully understand me I will frankly explain my position. To our little world here u are known but as a private soldier in the ranks, on the same footing with your comrades." 'Yes, but you know-"

"Pardon me a moment. I know what others do not. Knowing you but as a private soldier, what would be the verdict of the official circles were it to become a matter of gossip that the daughter of the commanding officer was in the habit of meeting you on terms of social equality? It would be soked upon almost as a crime by those who regard the social barrier between official circles and the ranks as impregnable. Now, my friend, with all candor I will say to you that I hold Mr. Edward Thornton in the highest esteem and feel honored with his friendship. I believe him to be my equal in everything that goes to make up true manhood and womanhood, and entirely worthy of my highest regard. But as long as he is unfortunately compelled to move in a sphere of life beneath that in which I am placed I must not allow my regard for the gentleman to overstep the line drawn by the hand of propriety and myself descend to his temporary level. I think I have correctly interpreted your nature, my good friend, and I believe you would suffer any personal disappointment cheerfully rather than in the least degree compromise myself or draw upon me the rebuke of my friends. Do you not think it best that we should see less of each other?" "Miss Sanford," he replied, "I fully appreciate the stand you have taken, nd your action increases my regard for you. It has occurred to me at times that by evincing a friendship for one far beneath you in the social scale you might be chided by your friends for disregarding the rules of military etiquette. I would suffer as keenly as yourself were you to be in the least compromised by your association with me. Am I to understand, then, that tration. Our home the meetings which have afforded me so much pleasure are to be discon-

"Not altogether. I trust we may meet at times and that we will remain good friends. The day will come, Mr. Thornton, perhaps sooner than we expect, when you will cast aside your soldier character and reenter your proper sphere in life, and when it does come I hope to yet be numbered among your friends. I will at times be pleased to see your sketches, and, believe me, though propriety demands a less display of friendship, I yet hold you in the highest esteem and will do all I consistently can to lighten the load you bear. But we are nearing papa. Will you sketch to-morrow? I think I will take a ride down the Mesa trail. "I will, Miss Sanford, at my old rock sent. Before we part I must express my thanks and gratitude to you for this conversation. My heart will be lighter, for, though I may but seldom see you. I will feel that you are my friend. God bless you." "Thank you, Mr. Thornton. Why how pleasantly papa is smiling. That means a good-natured scolding for me.'

"Aha! you little truant," the colonel ried. "Your tastes are very eccentric, I must say, Miss Sunshine. You run away from your old ogre of a father to accept the attentions of a young officer, then diseard him for a private soldier of better looks and, damme, I must say, more soldierly bearing. I thought you would never get to me, you rode so slowly with your new escort.'

"O, papa, my poor pony was so tired I could not push him. This is Private Brown, the young artist of whom I told

"Private Brown, eh? Oho! I see it now. This is the young man who was recently brought to my attention through the proceedings of a court-martial, and I can understand why Vandever cut and run when he saw him approaching. He feared the man's temper might again lose step, and the dose be repeated. Eh, Sunshine?" "O, no, papa. Mr. Vandever did not know the young man was approaching us. He chose to return to the fort by another route, that is all."

"That's all, eh? Well, you don't know whether he saw him or not. I am inclined to think he did. But now for home. This insatiable, unreasonable, tyrannical appetite of mine demands immediate attention. I thank you, Brown, for the trouble I put you to in chasing this runaway. You can go your own way now. Come, daugh-

"Instead of being a trouble, sir, I assure you it was a pleasure to be able to serve you in even so slight a manner." Brown saluted the officer, raised his cap to Alice and galloped away toward the fort.

"Why, how infernally courteous the fellow is!" said the colonel, gazing after the retreating figure with admiring eyes. "And now soldierly his bear-He's a handsome dog, too. See how he sits on that horse, daughterhow like a knight of old he poses in the saddle. I believe Colby told me be had him booked for promotion, and by Jupiter I'll see that he doesn't lorget it. pleasure to be able to serve me, ch? like that. No wonder he knocked that popinjay off his dainty feet."

"And Capt. Colby says he distinruished himself in several actions with the Indians, pape.

"Distinguished himself? Of course he did. My experienced old eyes can- should know it ere that hope has so not be fooled, Sunshine, and they see a firmly taken root that it would wound soldier in that man-a soldier who will do a duty when he sees it. There, his and cast it away. Day by day, as the cap has fallen off. Now watch him. See that mount? Precise! Precise! Soldierly in every move, just as I mounted a feeling of affection for you has grown in my younger days. Now, damme, 1 need a step-ladder ud a horse that tell me that should it be rooting there will stand as solid as the Rock of Ages until I get a firm seat in the saddle." Alice's face glowed with much pleas-opportunity a favorable one to yet fur- fore me I would not insult you by askther advance him in the estimation of the colonel she said: 'And don't you remember, papa, he is the man I told you of who was an honored, respectable gentleman is civil life, and who was induced to enlist while in an irresponsible condition." "I recall some such story, but the army's fu'l of martyrs, who all have propriety by what I am going to ask fairy stories to tell. You mustn't listen you. My little, my valued friend, the to them, Sunshine." "But if his story should prove to be true, papa, could not his discharge be

"Discharge such a man as that? Not by a jug full. We need more such men when soldier material is so scarce. We can't spare a good soldier in these days, my dear. Did the fellow ask you to plead for his discharge?"

"No, papa. On the contrary he said he regarded his present condition as a deserved punishment for wrong doing in allowing himself to drink until irresponsible for his acts, and that he ould manfully serve his time and do my heart a feeling new to me, but O, I his duty as a soldier to the very best of

"Tut, tut. All moonshine. If he does not desire a discharge why do you ask if one could be secured?" "Hecause I feel that it is unjust to ompel such a man to live a life of servitude in the ranks when he would be such a useful member of society, and I thought if there were a possibility of securing his release I would broach the subject to him and might gain his consent to be restored to his friends. I'm sure he has been punished enough, papa. You allow your sympathies to lick our judgment into smithereens, girlie. The fellow has been amusing himself telling you a cock and bull story, and were you to go to him and hand him a discharge he would laugh at you and refuse to accept it. Pay no attention to such chaff, daughter. Damme, I like the fellow's appearance, though, and I'll see Colby and give him a hint that there is good non-commissioned timber

CHAPTER XII.

The following afternoon Alice rode down the mesa trail and her heart throbbed with pleasure when she noted that Brown sat in his accustomed place, his sketch book on his knee. She approached him with a smiling face and extended her hand when he rose to greet her.

"Worshiping at the shrine of art, as usual," she said, as he assisted her to dismount. "And what study have you chosen to-day? But before we discuss your picture I have something very pleasant to tell you. Papa thinks you a model soldier.' "He does? Well, it is indeed pleas ant to receive a compliment from such a source. So you discussed me after I left you yesterday?" Alice told him all that had been said, excepting the references to his discharge from the service. "It will be hard to convince the colonel of the truth of my story. I did not know that you had made him acquainted with the circumstances of my enlistment." "Oh, didn't I tell you? Well, I told him, or, rather, started to tell him, once, but he scouted at the idea and bade me not listen to such stories from the soldiers." "He will not always laugh at it." Brown replied, with a tinge of resentment in his voice. "The day will ome when he will believe in me, and-

But let us discuss some other matter. I have something very serious to say to you to-day, Miss Sanford, and I trust ill hear me through before condeming me. I have given the matter most serious thought, and have determined to pursue the only manly course my judgment presents. In justice to you, in justice to myself, in obedience to the promptings of manhood, I have determined to unbosom my soul to you. and for the moment may I ask you to forget that you are listening to the words of a private soldier and look upon me as Edward Thornton, a man of whose friendship you have no cause to feel ashamed.

"Miss Sanford, I speak to you now as one who feels that he is your equal in life, as nearly as man can equal the beautiful womanly flowers which God in His goodness sends to gladden the world. Since my first meeting with you on this, to me, sacred spot the knowledge that you have been my friend has flooded my life with purest sunshine. I had grown to look for your coming with a yearning which I could scarcely understand, and I could feel my soul go out in gladness to you at your approach, and when, after the unfortunate affair which shut me from your presence for a time, I returned here day after day and you came not, my heart was troubled and my life seemed east into impenetrable gloom. Yesterday your welcoming smile dispelled the clouds, and I left your side my heart dancing with resurrected joy. In my blanket bed last night I reviewed the happy hours I had spent in your society, and as the details of our meetings grouped themselves in a beautiful picture in my brain I determined that another sun should not set before I had laid bare my heart to you. Miss Sanford, if I have been nourishing a false hope in my bosom I me almost to the death to pluck it out tender, creeping vine entwines itself more closely about the supporting oak, in my heart, and reason and manhood only to wither and die beneath the blighting frost of disappointment it should be killed in its weaker life. My ure to hear her father bestow such friend, were I but an ordinary soldier praises upon her hero. Thinking the with no fair prospects in the life bePRAISED THE COOK.

PAPA THINKS YOU ARE A MODEL SOL-DIEE."

ing you to listen to such a confession,

but as I will some day step from the ranks into an honored place among my fellow men, as, on the burial from sight of Private Brown the humble soldier,

Mr. Edward Theraton the gentleman will be resurrected, I feel that I do not in the least encroach upon the lines of bud of affection now growing in my breast is fast bursting into the full

the world and can lay before you every proof that i am a man worthy of you. I may hope to win your love and

"Mr. Thornton, I-I-this is so unexpected. I don't know what to say to are sincere in all you say, and that you are actuated only by the purest motives. I have learned to think very highly of you. You have awakened in should not listen to you now. Give me time to think. My brain is whirling with this strange revelation. Mr.

Thornton, I-I-do respect you above all men. I feel toward you as I never before felt toward a man. You reem very near and-and-dear to me, and-warm place in your purest of woman-might not so fear my love was hopeless.

WILL YOU GIVE ME THIS HOPE, ALICE?

hope, and when you are restored to the world I will be as proud to proclaim your love for me as I am now proud to for that assurance. It will be the guiding star to lead me from this bondage

your feet, and in a lovely home some-

"Beautiful! Beautiful!" she replied,

her face glowing with the new joy which filled her heart, "and I pray the dear Lord that no cruel blow may fall to crush our hopes. Will you not now use every endeavor to secure your dis-

"You must be patient, dear one. I ward as a man and claim the dearest ther as man to man and ask him for the priceless treasure he so dearly loves.'

I see you my eyes will tell the story

plainly as words, and when I address

you in the presence of others my voice

will proclaim that which prudence

bids me conceal. I will be very happy.

Edward, yet very impatient for the day of your deliverance to come. Will

"Yes, Alice, I will. After a day or two when I have had time to fully formulate my plans I will write to my aunt, and the dear old soul will follow any suggestion I may make looking to my release. It will not be long ere I

Her breast was filled with a strange rapture, and a smile of radiant joy lit up her fresh young face. For more than an hour they sat there upon the rock lost in a blissful dream of love, he ean claim my-my-little-wife.

til Alice softly whispered:

sun of love."

she replied in tremulous voice.

you not try to hasten it?"

"O, I fear I can never hide my love,"

"When

one to contemplate?"

charge from the service?"

'May Heaven bless you, my dear girl, possess it."

cannot express my thoughts."

said to her:

hope, Alice?"

me day ask you to be my wife?"

The Major Explains Why He Has No Praise "Now, major, you must not praise the cook in her hearing," Mrs. Max said: "You will only spoil her and make her demand an increase of

"Not much," the major replied emphatically. "I had a little experience in that matter which taught me a lesson. It was before we were married, my dear, and before I resigned. Our blown flower of radiant love, and I regiment was with Gen. Howard, must ask you if when I am restored to chasing the Nez Perces Indians across the mountains in Montana and Idaho. One of our lieutenants had been stationed at the Presidio in San Franeisco, and the mess made arrange ments with him to bring a Chinese cook. My, how that cook could you. I believe in you. I believe you sook! The beggar brought along in some mysterious manner the most unexpected things. I remember one day we'd had a venison roast the day be fore-that adorable celestial gave us a renison stew with pickled walnuts! All the officers in the mess appreciated chis; but bless me! how they jumped on me when I said to the cook: 'Plenty good stew, Chung, plenty good.' All said I was a fool." "Major! How could they?" said Mrs. Max.

O, I cannot tell you what I feel. I 'Oh, that's only mess-room talk, Everybody calls everybody a fool at a He gently took one of her hands and mess dinner. Well, as I was saying, holding it between both of his own. all the boys said Chung would strike for higher wages, get impudent or haughty, and leave if we praised him. "Miss Sanford-Alice, I believe I hold So they laid out a scheme. Whenever ly hearts, and the belief floods my soul he brought in a particularly good dish we were to turn up with a joy almost boundless. Just a word from your lips, just one little word telling me I may hope some day noses and make mean remarks. in the future to win you, and my soldier life will pass as but a dream from which I will awaken into a heaven of joy and rapture. Will you give me this O. Mr. Thornton, I can no longer

That would keep Chung in a proper and lowly spirit, and generally promote harmony and discipline. The next day he gave us some mountain quail roasted in envelopes of bacon; and, really, my dear, I wish your cook could roast a quail like that. The boys stifle the words which rise from my all said 'ugh!' or 'pish!' or 'tush!' and heart. I do love you; I have long loved the last one threatened to throw the dish away. Chung regarded that with you, and have nightly prayed to my Father in Heaven that the social barrier calm exterior, but after dinner he apbetween us might melt away that I peared swaddled in every one of his lackets, and bade us good-by. We were nearly frightened to death, and Yes, my king among men, you may asked what ailed him.

"You no like my cooking, me no cook," " that heathen answered.

"We assured him we would try and stand it, and he grinned and said we could stand it for just ten 'daila' more per lunar month. Of course, we felt silly, but there was nothing to do but pay it to him. That made seventy dollars a month. . They were the biggest lot of fool officers I ever saw, for they insisted on their scheme. One day Chung brought in a tenderloin of

"Mule? Major!" "Yes; we were down in the bad lands then, hundreds of miles from any settlement, and mule was pretty good. You never happened to eat a young mule, I suppose? Of course not. Well, he had seasoned the mule with a kind of little pepper he had found, and it was immense. Then those fool boys went through the same idiotic performance. The last one the dish was passed to turned up his nose to his eyebrows and said: 'Oh, blazes!""

"Major!" "I was not the man, my dear, Chung had watched the proceedings to the end, silently, but when the remark I have quoted was made Chung turned on his beel, and he, too, said-to the freedom of independence. I have dared to paint the most glowing mental pictures of our future, for I "Major!" have long felt that you would some day 'No, not 'major,' but the word you come into my life and reign as queen object to. After dinner he appeared over my heart and home. Your father again, all dressed up in his Sunday clothes, and bade us good-by. We re- moderate decorator. -N. Y. Herald. is growing old, my dear one, and will no doubt soon be satisfied with the monstrated, but it did not work. We proud distinction he has won by life- threatened and he pretended not to long service of his country, and will understand. Finally we asked him how seek retirement that he may pass the much. "One hundred dollar month," evening of his life in peace and quie- unswered Chung, with never a ghost of tude. I will be able to lay wealth at a smile.

"We paid it. Since then I've believed where, with that good old man as our a little praise to the cook, judicially especial care, we will live surrounded administered, approaches G in domesby a halo of love which no clouds can tic economy."

ever dim. Is not the picture a pleasant "I'm sure," Mrs. Max remarked, after a thoughtful observation of her finger nails, which are very pretty, "I'm sure don't see why you didn't advertise for another cook."-N. Y. Advertiser.

LETTERING ON BANKNOTES Great Care Is Taken to Have It Done Per

feetly. Lettering may be described under must have time to think what is best three heads-large lettering, such as to be done. And now, Alice, we both bond titles; small lettering, like that have a part to play. It must never be done on coupons, cards and tickets: known that a word of love has been and script or writing. Some engravers spoken between us. I fully realize can do good work in all of these your position, and know but too well branches of lettering, but in large esthe reproach which would be cast upon tablishments each man is kept emyou were it to become known that you ployed at that style in which he ex had placed your affections upon a private in the ranks, and we must guard In bonds and stock certificates the well our secret until I can come fortitles and script are usually done on the plate from which they are to be prize God ever held within the reach printed, but there is a lot of small of lover's eager hand. Take one aswork, common to jobs of that kind, surance to your heart, my darling. I which is done on what are called will never claim that prize until I can 'dies" or "bedpieces," and transferred do so as one who stands your equal in from the rolls to the plates. This will social life, and who can face your fabe more fully described later.

In large lettering a drawing of the outline of the letters is made on paper to get the shapes, curves and spacing rrect. A tracing of this outline is then made on gelatin, and, after filling this with vermilion, a thin coating of wax is laid on the plate and a transfer, of the gelatin tracing put on the wax. Next the outline is carefully marked through the wax on to the plate; the wax is taken off and the artist is ready to begin his cutting.

Lettering on bank notes, if there is to be more than one note on a plate, is engraved on "dies" or "bedpieces" and transferred to the plate. This insures the exact duplication of the material of each of the notes, and also makes it possible to reproduce and retouch the work at any time. - C. W. Dickinson, Jr., in Popular Science Monthly.

Origin of "Viz." The contraction "viz." is a curious painting bright pictures of a future instance of the universality of arbialight with rosente happiness, she trary signs. There are few writers drinking in his every word with who do not appreciate the fact that the rapturous delight. The san slowly little struction may be used in "goodrank behind the San Mateo peaks writing of all kinds, but there flashing back great showers or golden are probably even fewer persons who light to tinge the fleecy clouds with have any idea of its origin. It is a corrare colorings of transparent loveliruption of the word videlicet, the terness. More and more brilliant grew minal letter of which was formerly the radiant colors as the great orb of made in the shape of a "z," but was day withdrew its face from the grand never intended to represent that letpanorama of plain and mountain, until ter, being simply used as a mark or the whole western skies hung as a sign of abbreviation. It is now always golden canopy above the mighty range. written and expressed as "z," and will The lovers sat and gazed upon the doubtless continue to be so used as wondrous picture in blissful silence unlong as written language exists. It is, however, as we have said, one of the "It is an omen of good, my beloved. many arbitrary modes of expression A forecast of our future when our marused by the masses, who never give a ital skies shall be ever tinged with thought as to their origin. -St. Louis golden radiance from the never setting | Republic

Highest of all in Leavening Power .- Latest V. S. Gov't Kepore

Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEW FURNISHING EFFECTS.

Artistic Decorations and Color Schemes for Drawing and Dining Rooms. Always in the autumn it is that the home woman studies tone and color for her best room, for in this apartment lie all her best pieces of old fashioned furniture and her choicest bric-

At a well furnished country house, when at all seasons of the year visitors come and go, this delightful apartment is a harmony in tints of warm grays and eream white. The walls were covered with a paper resembling an old fashioned cashmere shawl; that familiar figure which suggests the palm, in which tones of different grays predominated. The frieze, of excellent depth and quite beyond the average, was in colors of a darker gray, making the combination harmonious and effective.

The floor was of curly birch, that now fashionable wood, and so well laid was it that not a scam was visible But to insure comfort, warmth and coziness two or three Japanese rugs were thrown here and there

The furniture, light in character and weight, was of pure white, decorated | Don't Tobacco Spit or Smoke Your Life with narrow bands of gold; the most | Away prominent piece, a Louis XVI. table, occupying the center of the room. There were small, well covered sofas, tete-e-tete chairs and a number of those convenient stools of Turkish make. In one corner was a substantial divan, dark and light delieste browns were the bit of color in this pretty apartment.

On the walls were etchings, framed, many of them in gray silk and plush, some in pleats, some in puffs, some in of furnishing gives us some fine points clares, for the dining room, fruit in its Atchison Globe. various stages is just the thing, and if various stages is just the thing, and if rightly done is an excellent device. For the walls proper the orange tree, with suffering will be saved. Sold by druggists. stems, leaves and blossoms, on a grayish blue background, is a delightful combination. The dado should be deep Shakespeare. red. Between these two plans of dec oration a line in black and gold should be well defined.

New ideas in paper present themselves at every turn for dining rooms, and especially designs in which rich room is one in which palms, india-rub-know I've come home."—Life. ber plants, greenery of all kinds, is a good decoration.

The ceiling for this room, if paneled in curly birch, is a superb finish, and if well treated will last for many years. Among the new departures for ceilings, where the dining room is fine and spacious, burlaps in tapestry colors are These gorgeous goods can be purchased for sixty cents a yard, but, of course, are above the price of the

RAIL RUMBLINGS.

THE summit of Mount Vesuvius can now be reached by a cable railway. THE Pennsylvania is preparing drawings for a compound freight locomo-

At the end of March last year there were 519 compound locomotives on the Prussian state railroads.

Or the thirty-eight street railway companies in New Jersey only four paid a dividend last year. A MAP recently issued by the New York Central shows that the Grand Central station is located in the exact center of the metropolis. UNDER the new rules of the Pennsylvania company all train men hereafter employed must be five feet nine inches

THE steam railways are suffering from the competition of the trolley roads, and now the cry is raised that the trolleys are being painfully de-pleted of their traffic by the bicycles.

THE whole length of Russian railroads is now twenty-three thousand one hundred and thirteen miles, of which twenty thousand eight hundred and thirty miles belong to the government and are under the control of the ministry of ways of communication.

In all, the length of the track laid on the Siberian railroad is now one thousand and twelve miles, which is less than one-quarter and more than onefifth of the whole length of the Siberian main line (four thousand five hundred and fifty miles).

CURE SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION,

INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, POOR APPETITE,

and all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Of all druggists. ONCE USED.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE

not without its use; people wink to keep the eyeball moist." Soda Water Clerk-"Not much they don't. The people who come in here wink to keep their throats moist."—Life.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been alie to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure, known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CERNEY & Co., Toledo, O. Self Solid by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Fills, 25 cents.

HE GUESSED AT HER QUESTION .- Mrs. Bonkles—"Are your wife and family—"Mr. Joglets—"No, they are not. I told them that times were so hard this summer they'd have to stay at home."—Detroit Free Press.

Is the truthful, startling title of a book about No-To-Bac, the harmless, guaranteed tobacco habit cure that braces up nicotinized nerves, climinates the nicotine poison, makes weak men gain strength, vigor and man-hood. You run no physical or financial risk, as No-To-Bac is sold by Druggists broad and of good length, over which was thrown a child rug whose tints of Remedy Co., New York or Chicago.

> VENERABLE to me is the hard handcrooked, coarse—wherein, notwithstanding, lies a cunning virtue, indispensably royal as of the scepter of the planet.—Carlyle.

The Strongest Men Grow Weak At the windows were inside curtains of Swiss muslin, with a pattern of gray dots. The hangings at the doors and windows were of gray silk damask in stripes, and were held in place by bebony poles.

New ideas in paper present them.

The strongest Men Grow Weak

Sometimes. The short cut to renewed vigor is taken by those sensible enough to use Hostetter's Stomach Hitters systematically. It re-establishes impaired digestion, enables the system to assimilate food, and combines the qualities of a fine medicinal stimulant with those of a sovereign preventive remedy. Malaria, dyspepsia, constipation, ricumatic, nerv sus and kidney compilants are cured and averted by it. complaints are cured and averted by it.

Wife-"How sweetly the baby sleeps.

I can recommend Piso's Cure for Conood decoration.

An artist who is a genius in the art Townsend, Ft. Howard, Wis., May 4, '94.

THE summer girls will wear puffed sleeves

Tun plants look up to heaven, from whence they have their nourishment.—

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live bet-ter than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by mono promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect lax-ative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation It has given satisfaction to raillions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels witnout weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance

Syrup of Figs is for cale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is man ufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Beecham's pills are for billousness, bilious headache, dyspepsia, SHUN equally a somber air and vivacious heartburn, torpid liver, dizziness, sallies.—Marcus Antonius. sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, loss of appetite, sallow skin, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

Go by the book. Pills toc and 25c a box. Book FREE at your druggist's or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal Street, New York.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes. FARMERS SAW MILLS, Corn and Feed Mills, Hay Press DE LOACH MILL MPC. CO., STA, ATLANTA, Go. or NAME THE TAPELS OF MANY THE TAPELS OF THE MILE.

A. N. K.-H.

